State Fair Plans.

The Vermont State fair to be held on the state fair grounds at White River Junction on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Sept. 18, 19, 20 and 21, on as extensive lines as have heretofore made popular this state institution. The only change from established custom authorized by the executive committee is the excluding of "string" exhibits from the poultry department. This new policy will confine the entries to a few pens by each exhibitor and practically limits the territory from whence exhibits will come to New England. In the cattle department no premiums will be offered for Brown Swiss cattle. In all other respects the fair will be as previously conducted, with the same liberal premiums on exhibits and with even larger purses for trotting than heretofore. The state fair this year will include the customary large exhibits of cattle, horses, sheep and swine. Floral, machinery and horticultural halls will be filled with interesting exhibits. The Morgan horse show promises to be up to the show of the past, with several new horses to be shown by new exhibitors.

Rev. Rankin Delivers Address.

The Rev. H. B. Rankin of Newport spoke in the chapel on Monday afternoon in the interest of the Young Men's Christian Association that proposes to follow our flag and our boys wherever they go and assist the army chaplains, who are handicapped because they are preachers and ministers to the men in their hours of leisure while in the training camps, where the temptations are great. Fifty per cent in the British army are inefficient on account of venereal diseases and high authority says the same ratio is true of the Canadian forces. The War Council has decided to put a Y. M. C. A. building at every point of troop concentration, providing a place and a man to counteract the evil influences and look after the social physical intellectual and moral welfare of enlisted men. The results have been so good in the past that on April 27 President Wilson signed an executive order giving official recognition to this movement. An army of a million men will require 200 association buildings, 1,200 experienced association secretaries, 200 moving picture machines, 268,000 feet of film a day, 200 photographs, 600,000 records, 3,000,000 sheets of writing paper daily, 40,000 pounds of ice per day, 10,000 pens per day and many barrels of ink, 95 automobiles and trucks, magazines by the hundreds of tons, a Bible to every man, and $3,000,000 to be raised to pay the expenses for one year.

LYNDON BOY HONORED.

Carl A. Smith Chosen County Agent in New Hampshire.
(From the Manchester Union.)

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Hillsborough County Farm Bureau held yesterday afternoon in their office at the county courthouse, Carl Albert Smith of Lyndon Center, Vt., was elected county agricultural agent for the remainder of the year after having considered the merits of several other applicants.

Mr. Smith was born thirty years ago and lived upon a fertile farm of 150 acres in East Lyndon, Vt., for upwards of twenty-five years, which carried fifty head of cattle and horses and was carried on by Mr. Smith and his father who was a progressive farmer, until 1909 when the son succeeded to the ownership and successful management. In 1915 he gratified his aspiration to procure a better education than he had obtained in the Lyndon institute, disposed of his farming interests, and entered the Michigan Agricultural College in the class of 1917, completing a four-year course in agriculture, specializing in advanced chemistry, bacteriology, soils, dairying and animal husbandry, in three years when he received the B. S. degree. In addition to this, he took up work in public speaking and veterinary science.

Near the end of his college course he was offered the position of county agent in the Theodore N. Vail Agricultural School and farms, Lyndon Center, Vt., and assumed his duties in 1916. Besides his class-room work, Mr. Smith has had direct supervision of eight farms and their help, laying out the work, keeping the accounts and pay-roll.
